CRITERION I – CURRICULAR ASPECTS

1.1 – Curriculum Planning and Implementation

1.1.1 – Institution has the mechanism for well planned curriculum delivery and documentation. Explain in 500 words

Notwithstanding the fact that H.R. College, being one of the affiliated colleges of the University of Mumbai, is bound to follow the curriculum prescribed by the latter, it nevertheless undertakes several innovative measures to enrich the same. Some of these are: Preparation of the Academic Calendar by the IQAC at the commencement of the academic year, based on which faculty members prepare teaching plans which are further verified by respective Heads of Departments. Important dates of examinations, project assignments and college results along with events to be held are included in the calendar. The progress of teaching plans is discussed, assessed and monitored in the departmental meetings. Each department puts forth its requirements, as regards reference books based on the curriculum, to the library. Further, teachers also have the autonomy to adopt mid-course deviations and improvise classroom delivery. Putting together the First Day Brochure which is made for all classes and courses and comprises important information useful for students at the beginning of the year. It includes details of college faculty, time-table, lecture plans, project instructions, schedule and past papers. This brochure is handed over to the students during their Orientation programme held at the beginning of the academic year to which parents, as important stakeholders, are also invited. Submission of daily reports of the lectures conducted during the day and class room allocation charts, prepared by a designated day in-charge, ensures the smooth delivery of lectures. Student Course Packs and Smart Manuals: These course packs and smart manuals are prepared by all departments and include study material, worksheets, tips for toppers, model question papers and suggested readings. Past University papers are also included with suggested answer guidelines. Examination Manual: The Examination Committee prepares a manual on the evaluation system to ensure uniformity in assessment procedure. Examination Committee Templates: The examination committee prepares schedules for the year based on the examination templates that have been developed with the help of the faculty. These templates are ready notices which can be issued with change of dates. This brings uniformity in the examination process. Website: The College updates its website regularly for effective communication of schedules. Updated database of student with their mobile numbers and emails is used to communicate and reinforce the schedule or communicate the latest changes, if any. The institution creates email groups for both faculty members as well as for students to disseminate the information of schedules.

1.4.2 – How the feedback obtained is being analyzed and utilized for overall development of the institution?
(maximum 500 words)

Feedback Obtained

The institution has a robust approach towards curriculum feedback and hence the model involves multiple representatives from each stakeholder group: faculty, alumni, industry experts and students. This system is supervised by leaders of the relevant courses and the coordinators of programs. The system allows real-time improvements and teaching learning innovation when any deficiencies in or potential improvements to individual curricular components are identified by the stakeholders and need to be addressed rapidly. Curriculum evaluations are used to plan future revisions and other improvements in curriculum design. The institution adopts the formative curriculum evaluation model. Feedback is sought on curriculum design and deployment, conduct of examination and question papers, teaching learning. Suggestions from stakeholders are also welcomed. For this purpose, special feedback forms are made available physically and on the website of the college. This feedback is used to enhance the teaching learning process and improve the effectiveness of classroom instruction. The curriculum evaluation approach maximizes student involvement and provides opportunities for rapid improvements and development of innovative teaching processes which helps improve educational experiences. Our approach to continuous curricular evaluation involves planned meetings of student representatives with students, teachers and placement coordinators continuous interaction with industry experts and with alumni. Students make their observations on teaching style and content, adherence to the curriculum in special group sessions and clarity of written materials. Thereafter, grey areas are identified and communicated to faculty individually. Based on the recommendations of the other stakeholders and also considering the gaps in the curriculum the following seminars were conducted- A seminar on How to Prevent Cyber Crime was conducted by Sachin Dedhia, an independent Cyber Crime Investigator Certified Ethical Hacker (EC - Council, USA) on July 23, 2015. Financial immersion month was organised wherein the industry experts enriched students with their experiences on topics like GST, Raising Pitch of start-ups, Entrepreneurship, investment awareness Anti-Money Laundering Risk Monitoring etc. In this year feedback was also taken randomly in which around 578 students across the courses participated. Based on the suggestions of the students some reforms in the field projects were made and the photography lab was also established. Teachers' Feedback: Feedback was collected from all teachers at the end of the year. The Department of Mathematics voiced the need for inclusion of more analytical topics in the syllabus and hence accordingly some expert talks were organised. Employers' Feedback: The employers' feedback helped in designing the HR Pulse Immersion Week and accordingly the skill series programmes were designed. Alumni Feedback: The alumni suggestion regarding syllabus upgradation, to sync with the industry needs resulted in certificate programmes and co-curricular activities. Since the college follows the syllabus set by University of Mumbai, there isn't much scope to change the syllabus. However, to fill the gap as mentioned by the stakeholders, the college takes proper measures to incorporate the changes as suggested by stakeholders.

7.2 – Best Practices

7.2.1 – Describe at least two institutional best practices

First Best Practice: Promoting socially conscious intent that develops responsible leadership. 1. Context: The future of the country is shaped in classrooms. To echo this philosophy the institution makes conscious efforts to mould compassionate leaders. The idea of channelizing the energy of young minds towards betterment of society to achieve social development for a sustainable future is implemented through various action plans. 2. Objectives: • To address issues of underprivileged stakeholders who lack opportunities • To provide an enabling environment to such students to develop themselves. • To inculcate empathy among students from a privileged background, thus promoting an inclusive mindset. • To create responsible leaders for the future. 3. The Practice: The institution believes in executing impact based activities with tangible and intangible outcomes. HR College conducted a substantial number of activities where various student bodies were involved in organising programs, projects and initiatives in both rural and urban areas. These addressed issues related to health, environment, education and employment opportunities. The process involved discussion with people facing these issues, understanding their gravity and making a plan of action to execute with the help of like minded student volunteers and NGOs. 4. Evidence of Success: The three main student associations that are oriented to society undertake various social projects throughout the year are 1. Enactus 2. NSS 3. Rotaract Club of HR Area

268	114	367	Education
37	884	Help in Natural Calamities	09
532	29	319	Road safety
41	1154	5. Problems encountered and resources required:

In rural areas a big constraint is the acceptance of new ideas. Student leaders are required to handle these situations judiciously. Other limitations include availability of financial resources and geographical reach. However, the desire to strive for the betterment of these people, voluntary contribution and corporate collaboration, outstrips such constraints. Another challenge is to entice privileged students to join such outreach programmes. This is sought to be overcome through consistent mentoring in classrooms by teachers who endeavour to develop a sense of social responsibility among students. Second Best Practice: Connectedness and Collaborations 1. Context: In the contemporary world where network is considered net worth, HR college tries to bring about a high level of networking through all round connectedness and collaborations. The institution collaborates with foreign Universities, corporate houses, NGOs and Wellness agencies. We also believe in partnering with local and national colleges. The institution believes in continuous engagement with all stakeholders including alumni, placement partners and management. Connectedness and collaboration provide a platform for students to not only showcase their talents in front of corporate India, where they may become job creators or seekers, but also globally. It also provides opportunities to faculty to benchmark their teaching learning practices, research outputs and administrative best practices. 2. Objectives: • To encourage diversity in classrooms and to sensitize students towards the same. • To appreciate multiculturalism in a global world. • To inculcate the art and expertise of networking among students. • To engage with industry and understand their developments in order to make students job ready. 3. The Practice: The institution organises various programmes including seminars, workshops, students' exchange programmes, faculty exchange programmes, certificate programmes, soft skill training workshops for quality enhancement in research and education. It also organizes HR Pulse a soft skills programme, to make students employment worthy. A constant addition in its partnerships has always been prioritized by the institution with the aim of widening the horizons for its stakeholders. The college is proud of its landmark placements and engagement with industry. 4. Evidence of Success: Initiatives for faculty members

This restricts collaboration with foreign based universities for value based programmes. Meagre finances is yet another challenge faced in such programmes. Nevertheless the institution, with its available infrastructure and resources, has been able to mark its presence in the corporate world and global institutions too.
